In-house Training

We develop tailored in-house training (or on-site training) programmes specially designed and developed to deliver customized training to suit the individual needs of our corporate clients.

These are delivered either at the client premises or a suitable venue of their choice. We combine the latest training techniques with relevant case studies to create innovative and engaging programs. Our tailored courses assist organizations in addressing training needs gaps in the execution of their strategic objectives.

In-house training programmes may also be tailored to suit an internal certification programme for purposes of performance evaluation. These may be offered through our e-learning platform or 'in situ'. Indicative savings on In-house compared to open training courses are up to 60%.
